Hi Dan I have been unhappy with our medical system for a very long time. I have worked in it and know firsthand some of its failings. I believe in health care not medical care. The focus on health and quality of life is of utmost importance.

I have had some insight into the challenges that face people with disabilities from friends. While many would promise you the moon to get a vote the truth is there needs to be a task force set up and the task force needs to include families of people with the disabilities in order to figure out what is wrong, what can be done about it and how to implement it to be most beneficial.

Regards
